SKIN CONTACT ORANGE

What is a Skin contact/Orange Wine?

It's a type of white wine made by leaving the grape skins and seeds in contact with the juice. Depending for how long this contact last (The maceration phase can vary from a couple of days to several months, or even more than a year in some extreme cases) we will have wines that can range from golden, bright yellow to copper orange. Obviously, the kind of grapes, terroir and ageing vessel can alterate the color, the style and texture of the wine. We will try to list the wines from golden/more classic to amber and less conventional style.

2018 LUNE, Henry Milan

Provence-France

95

Vermentino, Roussanne, Grenache Blanc (Golden Yellow)

The Luna & Gaia is an extraordinary skin contact wine from the Milan family which, this year, is mainly Vermentino.

It was pressed and the skins remained with the juice for 20 days in a concrete tank. The juice was then transferred to a fibreglass tank where it settled for one year. It has great length, beautiful soft tannins and a complexity that is very appealing.

This wine will match a wide range of foods, but can also serve very well as an aperitif wine if you want to mull over the complexity and the elegance that a skin contact wine can offer.
